Oris steps up its relationship with WilliamsF1

Oris SA and Williams F1 confirmed the upgrading of their partnership for the forthcoming Formula One racing season. In addition to the current on-car locations, the Oris name will be seen also on the F1 drivers' gloves. Alex Wurz will join Nico Rosberg as an ambassador for the brand.

At the same time the new Oris Williams Day Date was launched. Its black dial is made of genuine carbon in pure Formula One style. Even the bezel serves as a display, with an hour scale from 13 to 24 hours. As a further feature, the hands and numerals under the scratchproof sapphire glass shine in dark orange Superluminova. The racing-style rubber strap reflects the vertical tread of a Formula One car's tyre. Clearly visible through the watch's skeleton back is the red Oris rotor – the mechanical heart of this powerful watch.
